Early years and the Art Process

Most children get the thrill of being creative with art materials. I was lucky to have a father who studied art and was a professional designer who started me on the artist's path by teaching me how to draw. I've always considered myself an artist. I feel like the reincarnation of an artist, expressing a continuity of creative power and purpose.

My first grade teacher, Miss Kessler told my whole class I would be a great artist one day. She let me work on my portrait of Lincoln, while the other kids went off to do something else. Miss Kessler, like all true teachers, discovered the jewel essence of each child and empowered them. Everyone can cultivate young talent by recognizing and saluting it when you see it. To all young artists: Keep fighting the good fight. You are part of the great chain of Art, a wave of creative energy that flows through an artist's life and work. It's a holy gift.

What is Visionary Art?

The artist's mission is to make the soul perceptible. Our scientific, materialist culture trains us to develop the eyes of outer perception. Visionary art encourages the development of our inner sight. To find the visionary realm, we use the intuitive inner eye: The eye of contemplation; the eye of the soul. All the inspiring ideas we have as artists originate here.
